

Other editions: Mobile | News Feeds | E-NewslettersFind it: Jobs | Cars | Real Estate | Apartments | Shopping | Classifieds | DatingSEARCH
ALLAll Local News Calendar Jobs More »SPONSORED
BY:HOME NEWS SPORTS WEATHER OBITUARIES OPINION DATA UNIVERSE ENTERTAINMENT MY LIFE PHOTOS & VIDEOS BUY/SELL CUSTOMER SERVICE

New Jersey health-care symposium Feb. 12 in Piscataway

FEBRUARY 11, 2010 • 10:39 AM

By Jeff Weber

Health-care reform is on the minds of many people these days. That's why more than 300 people are expected to attend the second annual "State of the State Healthcare Symposium" at 9 a.m. Friday, Feb. 12, at Rutgers University's Busch Campus Center, 604 Bartholomew Road in Piscataway.

The event, sponsored by the New Jersey Association of Health Underwriters, will bring together the top minds in government, insurance and health care in New Jersey for a candid discussion about the industry and the pros and cons of current health-care reform efforts.

The event, moderated by Jim Hooker of NJN News, will feature a distinguished panel of experts in health-care policy and insurance, including:

- Assemblyman Gary Schaer, Chairman of the Assembly Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee
- Michael R. D'Agnes, President & CEO of Raritan Bay Medical Center
- Annette Catino, President and CEO of QualCare Alliance Networks, Inc.
- John Lawrence, President of Aetna of New Jersey
- Robert E. Meehan, Vice President of Consumer and Senior Markets at Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of New Jersey

"There has been no shortage of discussion about health care over the past year but too much of it has come from under-informed sources," New Jersey Association of Health Underwriters President David Oscar said. "This year's State of the State features a panel of experts on the front lines of the issue. They will debate the value of proposals being discussed in Trenton and Washington."

Print This Post | Email This Post | Share This

ADVERTISEMENT

Search

About This Blog

Jeff Weber provides the pulse of the health-care community in Central Jersey and beyond.

Follow Me

About The Author

Jeff Weber

Jeff Weber has been dissecting the local health world for the Courier News, Home News Tribune and MyCentralJersey.com since June 2008. Prior to that, he served as a features editor, sports editor and sports reporter since joining the paper(s) in 1999. Health is of great importance to him, since he suffers from nasty seasonal allergies. Jeff resides in Union County and has spent his entire 30-plus years of existence in the throes of Central Jersey life.

E-mail Jeff

Recent Posts

- PERSONALABS offers reduced cost for heart-healthy online blood tests
- Princeton University joins growing Cancer Institute of New Jersey team
- New Jersey health-care symposium Feb. 12 in Piscataway
- Palliative Care Town Hall series coming to Overlook Hospital in Summit
- Live from the Games: Updates from East Brunswick chiropractor Blase Toto

Recent Comments

- Jeff Weber on New Jersey distributes polio warning card
- Gary on Children's Specialized Hospital unveils new autism program
- Arizona Advocates on Children's Specialized Hospital unveils new autism program
- Heartbeats » Children's Specialized Hospital unveils new autism ... | My Autism Site | All About Autism on Children's Specialized Hospital unveils new autism program
- Den Zahn on Give Kids A Smile Day offers free dental services to children

Meta

- Entries \(RSS\)
- Comments \(RSS\)
- WordPress
- Log in